Madeline's safety is my goal.
Kevin does have a history,
of Threats to kill me,
agression, throwing thing (etc).
I have the police reports to prove it. I have been sincerely afraid for both mine +
my daughters safety.
I think his behavior
might be caused by his drug use, which only a drug test would prove otherwise. ~~I mentioned~~ ~~in the past Kevins abusive~~
~~behavior~~ In the past,
I told Kevins mom about Kevins abuse to me + him
threatening to kill me.
Many said she wondered if Kevin had schizophrenia because it runs in the family - Evident by her brother who lives in the home w/ Kevin + his family -

Yes. There have been recent attacks from him to me, threating to hit me, pushing me + throwing things at me.
The pushing incident was documented in December 2013 at Lasalle Police station.
I have all the records to prove it

Oh Feb 4th, the day before scheduled visitation. I called to Kevin to make sure of arrangements. He voiced to me, that he did not want to deal w) me or have to pay child support + that he'd have to kill himself to get out of this mess.
My response to him, knowing the abusive, controlling / aggresive + hostile environment at his moms and her abuse to him, I said I felt bad for him that and file the order of Protection - I regret not calling the police about his suicidal talk.

~~That day for visitation, I let~~ ~~him come to the house to~~
I didnot let him take Madeline for visitation that day.
due to my fear for her safety
+ went the next day for an O.P.

Isn't it the laws job to ensure a child is safe? And protect them from child endangerment?
Lets say I didnt stand my ground +
The law disregarded the safety of a child, and allowed visitation to continue.
Ignoring the suicidal talk - which indicates a mental or Psych problem. Then that same unstable person you ignored the signs of, took their issues a step further + became homocidal,

he had to live there + that I am sure his mom didn't help the way Kevin was feeling.

Kevin voiced after that, that him mom makes him pretend to care about Madeline and he just wants to be done with it all. He said he had given up.

He also told me that he felt I wouldn't care even if he did kill himself.

The next morning I called DCPS + told them about what he said, they were already aware of his behavior.

They told me I needed to tell the Judge + have him issue a mental evaluation done.

Since he's been in a habbit of threatening murder and Kills him + Madeline both? ~~Who would know of this~~

Its the laws jobs to prevent this type of incident + I'm even bringing it to your attention so it can be prevented.

Kevin has a history of violence, mental illness in family, current drug use + suicidal thoughts + threats to kill me.

If he kills himself while he has Madeline, then that put Madeline in danger. Because who is going to care for her since she can't care for herself yet.

When Maddy was 5 days old, Kevin threw a bottle of baby powder across the house and it was 2 inches from hitting her.

- a couple months after - he threw a handful of change at both me + Maddy, she was laying on the floor w/ me + luckily the change ~~hit~~ only hit me, leaving large welts + it very well could have hit her.
